I have seen poor purp, warmy-looking children whose fiesh was soft and flabuy, restored to a perfect state of bealth by one bottle.

To those who are subject to a sick headache one sottle will a ways cure it. It gives great relief in extarrh and diminesa. Some who have taken it have been contice for years, and have been regulated by it. Where the body is sound it works quite easy, but where there is any derangement of the functions of nature it will cause very singular feelings, but you must not be a armed, they always disappear from four -ys to a week. There is never a had result from it; on the contrary, when that feeling is gone you will feel yourself like a new person. I head some of the most extravagant ecomisms of it that sver man lists not 30.

THE BOLINGBROKE TIPLE TO LANDS

IN ONTARIO COUNTY. To the Editor of The N. Y. Tribune.

SIR: An article recently appeared in The Rochester Union under the title of 'A British Peer Claiming Valuable Farms in Ontario County." The occasion of the article was the argument at the General Term of the Supreme Court at Rochester of the case of Ferdipand St. John against James Northrop. It is not u ual to brirg into newspaper discussion a question pending before our judicial t ibunals, and though I would not object to a fair report of the facts invalved and questions depending upon these facts, this article can hardly be regarded in that light. In fact, I cannot help surmising another object than merely to inform help surnising another object than merely to inform the readers of The Rochester Union as to some "curious historical facts." I shall need no apology for correcting some misstatements in the article quoted, and exposing in their proper light some einister suggestions as to the rights of parties which have been intracoven with that statement.

The tract of land which is the subject of litigation was purchased by Lord Boilingbroke in 1807 for the sum of $2.202 he being at that time a resident in this country, and a conveyance taken to his five children, who were all born here. These children were the issue of a German lady of noble rank who had become the wife of Lore Boilingbroke, and came with him to this country in ignorance of his having another wafe in England. By our law four of these children were ingitimate, but the plaintiff, Ferdinand, who was born after the dicease of the first wife was legitimate. After the purchase of these lands Boilingbroke returned to England with his family, where he continued to reside until his death the lands being letter the charge of Zachariah Seymour, eaq., of Canandalgua, as agent, until his decase in 1822, and then of his son, Charles Seymour, whose agency continued until 1828.

The agency was for the payment of taxes and look un it 1828.

The agency was for the payment of taxes and look

un it 1838.

The agency was for the payment of taxes and look ing after the lands generally, but, as might be expected where the proprietors were resident abroad, the agency was not an active one beyond the purposes above specified. Between 1828 and 1835 the lands were sold for taxes but rede-med by Wm. James St. John, the edest of the five children of Lord Bolingbroke, who returned to this country in the year last named and visited the lands. Up to this time there was no dispute about title. The tract was known in the neighborh of as belonging to the Bolingbroke family. Settlers came on the lands who acquired possessory rights, and transferred, them from one to account for a small consideration, but without any pretence of title, or any claim in opposition to the Bolingbroke title.

But in the year 1835 a claim was trade by Mahlon M. Ellis of U ica, which has been the source of all the controversy that has grown up between the rightful owners and the persons now in comparison. Mr. Ellis did not distinctly avon the nature of the title which he claimed but all the basis there was for any claim was this: His father, Marvel Ellis, had purchased the property many years prior to 1807, subject to a nortgage, which morigage not being paid was regularly foeclosed in 1800 and the right of Ellis arting niebed, but by an agreement then entered into he was permitted within two years thereafter to repurchase the premises upon payment of all that was due upon the mortgage. Nothing was done by his son until 1835, when as before mentioned, he came upon the mortgage, when maniming title, but instead of claiming an equitable right in conformity with the astreement, and paying, or off-ring to pay, the amount doe on the mortgage, appears to have thought it would be a better speculation to get the lands without paying the money. At any rate he has paid nothing—he offered to pay nothing. The rettiers were not in under him; on the contrary, they elakated in subordination to the Belingbroke little. But Ellie, whether he claimed to have the Bolingbroke little or whatever was his claim, subceeded to a considerable extent in disturbing the settlers and coercing them to take contracts from him or turning them of them to take contracts from him or turning them of the lands, the last being generally me result, after the settlers had taken contracts, or at least in many instances. It is nature that the improvements on the lands were made by Ellis, or by persons who came to under him. On the contrary, they were made by the atters who were there be one be claimed, and whe were willing to take their channe of being denit fairly with by the proprietors of the lands, but who had no title, and who dealt with them in a manner the very conceive of what might have been expected from the misferiume to fall into the hands of a man who had no little, and who dealt with them in a manner the very opposite of what night have been expected from the Christeners and generoeily of the Bolingbroke family. In the company, to the ready meritorious parties who have made the improvements, will be the effect of Mr. Elbis in vention. If he has not, he will have an legal justification; if he has not, he will have an legal justification; if he has not, he will have more to stawer for than an attempt to defraud the Bilingbrokes. The bigalion commenced within a few years after this cain was set up by Mr. Elis and the defense, so far as it has yet been tested, is noter the Elis claim of title, such as we have now explained it.

A serie of slop olar casuaties has protracted the lingation an incidinate length of time, but the contest has been no orious, and no one since the time that Mr. Els first ventured to avon openly a claim hostile to the Bolingbroke title, has any excuse for being uninformed of the merits of the general question. That question is, who has the title is in the Belingbroke family or in Mr. Ellis's. And now can any one inform me how it is to be detrimental to the public of to any house pole are individuals, if the title should be determined to be in the St. Johns, who paid a fall price for the lands many years ago, or why is it particularly to be determined to the Mr. Ellis should approved in his specumined to be in the St. Johns, who but a tail price are the larc's many years ago, or why is it particularly to be desi ed that Mr. Ellis should succeed in his specu-lation of get ing this tract of land, which, in the article que ed from The Rochester Union, is said to contain "some of the best farms in Western New-York," some of the best farms in Western New-York, without his having paid one dollar consideration for the same?

Thus far I have dealt with the real subject matter of this controver-7. There are other questions not involving the intrinsio merits, among which is the question of descent of the title upon the death of Wittiam James St. John. In the article referred to, an undue parade is made of this question, as if it was of any consequence to the public, or to any of the parties contested in the defense, upon which member of the tamily the descent is on t.

To the bar the construction of our remedial statutes in regard to descent, where alienase intervenes, is of in regard to ceech, where animage interveney, as course a matter of in each, but no one will be in doubt that the geneslogy of the family has been brought before the public with less reference to any difficult legal question than for the sinite or or prurient exposure of the domestic affairs of a British poer. Hiegitumacy, it is true, by force of our national moral sense, is a stigms, but our less have abated something from their species theor.

ms, but our laws have absted something from their size ent rigor.

Ferdinand St. John, the plaintiff in the case recently heard at Rochester, was, at any rate, the lawful issus of Lord Boiling broke.

He is entitled, as it is claimed in his behalf, to inherit the estate of his deceased brother, William James St. John. It is a mistake, however, that he also inherited the British peerage. This was not proved in the case, and the fact is that it passed to an elder brother, who was never in this country.

A claim by a foreign preprieter would be naturally the subject of local prejudice, which might have its influence with a jury; it is, therefore, a duty of all right-minded men, and especially of our judges, to resist any popular feeling of this kind. It has been hitherto the highest honer of our country that the administration of institute is our course has been struly unright unpopular feeling of this kird. It has been interest this highest honor of our courtry that the administration of justice in our courts has been struly upright, unswayed by mercenary motives or popular impulse. Such, we should hope, will still be the character of the bench, even under our elective system.

This case was argued before Justices Johnson, Welles and Strong, by E. G. Lapham and B. F. Cooper for defense, and A. H. Dana and H. R. Seiden for polaintiff.

METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS.

A LETTER FROM LIEUT. MAURY. To the Editor of The N. Y. Tribune.

Sin: I regretted to see the statement in your paper a few days ago from "Observer" setting forth, under the head of "Meteorology for the Fermers," that the plan I propose is a rival of one already in successful operation by the Smithsonian Institution. My friend, Professor Henry, will no coult feel as much surprised as I do to learn that we are setting up rival schemes.

The Smithsonian Institution has from the beginning been engaged in a system of meteorological observa-tions. This is all we know.

When Professor Henry entered the field meteorological in the name of the Smi heuntan, the United States army, with its med out corps, had already been at work in it for 25 or 30 years; their observations ex-tenced all over the country. But no one three obeta-cles in the way of the landable efforts of the Smith sonian by reminding amateur me corologi-ts and those whose voluntary aid was invoked that this was a riva" scheme to Mr. Calhoun's of the army, which had so many stations occupied, &c. There was so rivalry in the ages, the symv observations were for one ourpose the Smi hacrian for another. Pro'essor Henry may, I suppose, be presumed to know what is the particular object which, in organizing the Smithsonian system of meteorological ob-ervations he had in view. He says: "The great ob-" jeet of the Smithsonian collection of meteorological "obsert tions is to settle definitely the question as to " the origin, progress and character of the Winter

" storms of our country." The great object that I have in view is to extend to the land for the benefit of agriculture and other great interests the system of observations that has done so much for commerce and navigation. The object that I have in view is to cooperate with, not to work in opposition to, the Smithsonian Institution, the meteorological department of the Surgeon General of the army, or any establishment whatever. The field is an immense one, and there is room without rivalry or opposition in it for all the laborers and all the telents that a dozen other systems can call out. I beg therefore to assure "Observer" that the two eystems would only act in cooperation, not in rivalry; and that each, I have no doubt, would derive valuable sid and information from the other.

Respectfully, &c. M. F. MAURY.

Chier natory, Wandington, Dec. 19, 1855. REPUBLICAN MEETING AT PITTS-BURGH.

BURGH.

From The Ohio State Journal,

LATTER FROM THE HON, A. P. SIONE TO C. E. CLAY.

HON, C. M. CLAY—Deer Sive The Ohio Republican Convention beld in this city 13th of July last, instructed the State Central Committee, of which I sm Chaliman, to open a correspondence with the Republicans of other States, in regard to holding a National Republican Convention. A portion of the Republican Fress of this and other States, and a number of our most devoted fitenes, have expressed themselves in favor of holding an informal Mass Republican Convention at Pittsburgh, on the 22d of February, to consult together and to organize a National Republican Convenities preparatory to issuing a call for a Delegate Convenition to maintale candidates for President and Vice-President. Does the proposition to hold this meeting strike you favorably? Might we expect a representation at the meeting from Kentucky and the other Southern States? The enemies of the Republican party confined to the Free States and opposed to the propie of the Slave States. On the coutary, we think that Freedom to which the Republican party is devoted is national and Lot sectional, and that our position of appealing to the first party of the Slave States, whether staveholders or non-slaveholders. May we not expect to have a Republican electoral ticket, and numerous supporters in the Slave States during the aext Presidential contest? Very oral ticket, and numerous supporters in the Slave-Stales during the next Presidential contest? Very respectfully, your obelient servant, A. P. Stone, Chalman of S. S. C. Committee of Onto.

REPLY OF MR. CLAY.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 15, 1875.

Her. A. P. Stork—Bear Ser.: Your favor of the 1stn is received. Accept my thanks for your favorable consideration in asking the opinions of one sylumble as myself. The Republicans of the Slave States, though few in number, are no new party. Faithful among the faithles, proof against the seductions of office and the threatenings of power, we standfirm upon the platform of our faithcas of '76, in the world-wide spirit of the Declaration. We hold with Jefferson and his distinguished cotemporaries—that Slavery is an anomaly in a Republic, and against the law of Ged and man's highest invincts of right—that justice is always the highest expediency—that Liberty and Slavery cannot cockist—but that one or the other must die.—While on the one hand we have curried as our upon those central ideas which we inherited as our birthright as true Republicans, we do not forget that without law there can be no true Freedom of Froques. We have, the refers, studioually regarded the high obligations of the State and Federal Constitutions, and, willingly subjected ourselves to their suprement, even when perverted by mercenary majornies from their true spirit. We regard those as sufficiently Anti-Slavery for all practical purposes—as found in their own larguage to establish Liberty and Jestice—that Liberty is national, and Slavery sectional, in chooration of which idea I refer you to the late letter of the venerable F. P. Blair, the distingulated friend and confidential adviser of Ancrew Jarkson. We are neither the advocates of centralization nor disunitar, but the friends of national and State rights in the sample spheres of progress and reform with which the wisdom of our fathers compass d both. We therefore believe it to be our bounded duty, as good men and true Republicans to oppose autionally the existence of Savery, under any pretense whatever, in places of a clusive a national commit by sea and tand, and to bring the moral and political influence of the National Government permanently and firmly and avowatly on the ride of Slavery. And as the friends of Liberty are law, and they shall be justly bravided as traiters to both North and South, who counsel or act is violation of this only possibility of popular government.

Now, Sir, there are many in the Slave States ready to act openly with the Republican party—more who secretly sympathize with the concentrated and crilled forces of the precent ProSlavery administration. It think, then, your suggestion is a good one and that it will meet the views of the whole Republican party. For the sake of unity, let the first meeting at Pitzbang, on the earl opposition to the concentrated and crilled forces of the precent ProSlavery administration. I think, then, your suggestion is a good one and that it will meet the views of the whole Republican party. For the sake of unity, let the first meeting yesterday in the Circuit Court on a charge of aurdering Thomas Mulien, and the jury, after an absence of haif an hour, found him guilty of murder in the first degree. He heard the verdle; wi hout exhibiting the least emotion. Bennett is, we understand, from Wacciling. He is six feet high, of muscular frame, has black hair and a dark complexion, and the appearance of a desperato. He was defended by able connect. The murder was a horrible one. Mulien was a cliken of Madison, and on a visit to this city whon he was claim. His bedy was found in the river, and had no marks on it, except a sight wound on the head, which was supposed to have been caused by striking a reak. But from the evidence it appeared that the declased was drunk, was inveigled into an alley and knosked down by Bernett with a brickbat. He was then robbed and thrown into the river. Bennett had two accomplices. The Commonwealth's attorney entered a noile prosequing regard to one of them (McCarthy,) and he turned state's evidence. The other (Grey) has not yet had his tial, and we receive further comments until it has taken place.

After this Winslow went out, taking his gua with him, and again covered the boy to build a fire, and also told him that if he did not behave himself he would shoot him. The regio replied, 'Shoot and be d-d. The other servants say that at this Window callet for a gentleman named Miller, and at the time so informed Mr. Miller. When Miller went out, in answer to Winslow's call, neither Winslow nor the hegro was to be seen, but on a seem dearch he found Winslow lying on his face, with a dreadful cut on the side of his head, ranging just above the ear. Before the young man could be carried into the house he was dead. The young man was a son of Mr. Henry Winslow of Saline County, Missouri. The negro has no yet been caught. He is a heavy-set man, about 26 years old, and weight about 170 pounds. His skin is smooth, and has but little beard. It is supposed he has gone either in the direction of Warre reburg or Harrisonville, and will probably try to make his way into Kansss. His name is Herry."
